Wrestling Match

The people of Red Deer were given one of the best exhibitions of wrestling ever pulled off in this town, Saturday night. The main event being Rydman of Red Deer and Waklow from Wetaskiwin, Waklow winning in two straight falls, one in 23 minutes and the other in 11 minutes. We were very much surprised to have so many challenges thrown out, first being from Jack Conell, of Edmonton, to meet all comers, especially Waklow, for a side bet of $500.00. The second challenge was a challenge from J. R. Ellison to meet all comers and also the winner of that match for a purse and gate receipts, and was accepted in three places, Mr. Bogue being first. The audience was so enthusiastic over the challenge that they collected a good big purse to see them wrestle, and it was one of the prettiest exhibitions and display of holds that one would wish to see. They went a draw after trying one hour and thirty minutes, so they have decided to wrestle on next Monday night to a finish for a purse of $200 and gate receipts. Mr. Ellison is well liked in this city, as he has the best of habits. The preliminary boxing was very good.

Capt. Robert Temple Dead

Captain Robert Temple, of Valley Centre, passed away on Friday last, October 6th, of heart disease, aged 91 years. The funeral took place on Monday, the 9th inst., to Willowdale cemetery, Rev. Mr. Wheeler conducting the service. Captain Temple was born in Belfast, Ireland, and came to Alberta fourteen years ago, settling in Valley Centre district. He was a man strictly honorable in all his dealings, and highly respected in the community in which he resided. During his last illness he was attended and cared for by W. J. Stringer and family, who showed him every kindness.

Tuberculosis

To the citizens of Red Deer and district:

Dr. George Dana Porter will lecture on tuberculosis, its causes, prevention, etc., in the Presbyterian church on Friday evening, Oct. 13. As a medical man of this district, I would like to respectfully urge everyone who possibly can to be present and hear this most important subject discussed. It is the aim of the association for the prevention of tuberculosis to stamp out this dread disease. It can be done if the people are made aware of the manner of infection, the care of those infected, etc. Be there on Friday evening at the Presbyterian church, at eight o'clock, and hear the subject discussed by one who is devoting his entire time to combating this disease. J. COLLISON.

Mr. McGillivray Thanks His Supporters

Calgary, Alta., 6th October, 1911. To the friends and supporters of the Conservative party and myself in Red Deer and district:

Gentlemen: I desire to express my deep gratitude for your untiring efforts on my behalf and at the same time to congratulate you upon the defeat of the Laurier Government. While we have not been successful in carrying this riding, I am proud of having had the privilege of carrying your banner, and can assure you of my sincere appreciation of your loyal support. Yours sincerely, A. A. MCGILLIVRAY.

"YON YONSON COMING."

Those who want to laugh and drive away the blues, will do well to visit the Lyric Theatre to-night and hear the Yon Yonson Company. The Company advertise one hundred and eighty laughs, in that many minutes, but there are more; in fact, the play is a continuous laugh, almost from start to finish, with the exception of a very few moments of beautiful pathos. Yon Yonson is a play, but it might well be classed with the most laughable comedies ever offered to the American public.

The water wagon on our dusty streets is again a welcome sight to our tax-dimmed eyes.

Geoff Hewson and Charley Smith returned on Tuesday from the coast, where they spent a pleasant holiday.

Steve Wilson, accompanied by Mr. Hargrave, a coal mining expert from Edmonton, is inspecting the coal properties at Alix.

Quite a crowd of the young people went down to the I.O.O.F. hall at Innisfail on Friday evening and report having had a fine time.

"Irish Mike" gave an exhibition of fancy driving last Thursday evening to a delighted crowd on the traffic bridge. The arrival of the constable stopped the fun, and Mike paid the costs.

Here is a good one on the Red Deer girls. A local firm advertised for a good looking girl for their business and, after waiting for two weeks, and hunting, in the countryside in vain, they sent to Calgary and got one. The Citizens' Band went to the Camrose fair on Thursday evening, returning on Saturday. They were given the time of their lives by the citizens of Camrose, who were unable to do too much to make their stay as pleasant as possible, and the boys are looking forward to a similar trip next year. While waiting for the east train at Wetaskiwin on Thursday night, the boys were the guests of R. M. Angus and son Billy, at the splendid Angus Theatre, where a large crowd had gathered to enjoy the programme rendered.

READ THIS AND ACT QUICKLY

If you are wise. Do you realize that every day that you delay buying some one of the many bargain properties we are offering it is costing you just what that property enhances in value during the delay, and sometimes that is a very snug amount. Why put it off longer when you could not miss it once in a hundred times? If you are in doubt just where to invest come in and ask us about it. The property advertised last week has been sold. We knew it would be snapped up.

One of Byron's jokes.
Byron had given to Murray, his publisher, as a birthday present, a Bible. Significantly bound, which he enhanced by a very flattering inscription. It was a fact that the publisher in his drawing-room table and somewhat ostentatiously displayed to company.

One evening as a large company were gathered around the table one of the guests happened to see the manuscript and saw some writing on a margin. Calling to Murray, he said, "Why Byron has written something about me."

"What?"

"He says you are a damned good fellow."

THE CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM AND THE U.F.A.

When the great delegation of farmers visited Ottawa last winter the government were asked to grant the settlers of the west a number of favors, among them being control and operation by the state of terminal elevators, encouragement and assistance to chilled meat industry, establishment of permanent tariff commission, the Railway Commission to have a section devoted to western business, the construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, and other things. The reciprocity pact was not then seriously thought of by the delegation. Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not promise these reforms at that time but gave the matter his consideration. He in the meanwhile decided on reciprocity and that, it was thought, would sweep the country, especially the West. It did carry Alberta and Saskatchewan. Now that the elections are over, the farmers can view with calmness the promises made by Mr. Borden on his Western trip. He promised the West everything they asked except reciprocity, and he is a man to fulfill his promises. We believe the West will receive more from Mr. Borden than they would ever have received from Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He has already promised he will, at as early a date as possible, grapple with the affairs of the West. He has promised extension of rural-mail delivery, improvement of public highways, extension of agricultural education, and will be ever ready to assist in any way possible our development.

But perhaps the most important promise made was that, in the event of being returned to power, he would grant the West full control of their natural resources; not only control of the swamp lands, but the entire lands, the minerals, the timber, the fish and the water. This, we contend, was the greatest promise made by Mr. Borden. This is what the West is waiting for; this is what will make this the greatest province in Canada. Deprived, as we were by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in 1905 of our resources for the paltry sum of three hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars, which will not more than pay for the royalty the Dominion receives from Alberta at the present time on coal mines in the province.

Under all these circumstances, the farmers and the U.F.A. of Alberta cannot but devote their time in approaching Mr. Borden with a request to carry out his promises as soon as possible, when he will receive the support of the west.

PROVINCIAL BY-ELECTIONS.

Should the elections of the four vacant local constituencies in this Province endorse the present government? The Albertaian says yes. The Albertaian tries to shift the load of the A. & G. W. deal on other shoulders. It even has the colossal impudence to speak of a Michener Clarke "dreadful" smart Kansas man that upset Cross' apple-cart quite unintentionally, to be sure, but a combination. We say to the electors: he not deceived. These are old tricks of

The Albertaian. What is hard to carry, the Albertaian likes to foist on the other fellow. But such "bamboozling" nonsense, same electors will not even read. Clark, the late Kansas man, did up Rutherford, Cross, et al, he tried to do up this Province: Bennett's famous speech stopped it all. The great members of the House were prepared to swallow the Charley Cross composition, the Railway Ready Relief, so to speak, but they saw it otherwise after Bennett's speech: they saw the danger of the dose, the death in the cup. They left it for the Rutherford Administration: like Hamlet's uncle, they had to drink it; and like him, they were carried into the cold shades. There were no flowers and, no hands either.

But what intelligent elector that is not a partisan can vote for any Liberal Administration in Alberta after their handling of this Province. They have made do's to the amount of nearly ten millions of dollars and that since 1906; they have shown rare incapacity in dealing with railway legislation; they have split the Province into North and South by unfair and unjust actions; they have not safeguarded the people in their bargains with the Canadian Northern Railway; they have expended large sums on telephone construction and extension, much of which could well have waited till the roads and bridges received more attention. They squandered this Province on two occasions; they brought Duncan Marshall out here. This last is enough to damn any government; to have brought such a rare election handler and then to make a Minister of him, and then to continue him in the reconstructed executive indicates a power or a knowledge, or both, in Mr. Duncan Marshall that is altogether extraordinary. He was the only one of the Rutherford Ministry that was re-assisted—the only one that did not remain in the cold shades; the only one of such rare vitality as to enter a new government. Why this vitality? Whence this power? What is the nature of his rare knowledge? Electors take it and think it over.—Provincial Standard.

CALGARY GETS THE CAR SHOPS.

At last the great question as to where the C.P.R. car shops will be settled, and Calgary gets the plum. Calgary is lucky. But it is not all luck by any means. Calgary has always been loyal to the C.P.R. and to the great traditions of the west. Calgary has always attended strictly to business, and she is now becoming a great city—the greatest city in the far west. A city of great commercial houses and bright, nifty, energetic business men.

She has always, in sunshine and frost, put the best foot forward, and now she has taken with a bound forward that she will be found in the forefront of the great cities of Canada.

Red Deer congratulates Calgary on her grand future, as it was coming to her.

WHAT IS SAUCE FOR THE GOOSE IS SAUCE FOR THE GANDER.

Every Liberal paper in the East has stated that as soon as reciprocity was defeated the price of pork dropped. Just the opposite happened in Red Deer. The price offered by the U.F.A. has risen to 9 cents per pound, and they can't get enough pork to supply the demand at that price. Therefore, according to Grit arguments in the Globe, London Advertiser and Edmonton Bulletin, this raise in price to the farmer is due to the defeat of reciprocity.

HARD UP FOR A CRY.

The Edmonton Bulletin says the News sneered at the members of the United Farmers of Alberta for the insignificant part they played in the recent election. We did nothing of the sort. We virtually acknowledged that the large Liberal vote in Alberta was due to the influence of the U.F.A. But we contended this influence was of small account in the general result throughout the Dominion. The Bulletin itself said: "It is true that the votes polled by the farmers of Alberta did not and could not make any difference in the result of the general elections." Now that is just what we said, only in different words.

The Bulletin just put up a straw man and then pounded the stuffing out of it in a column article to prove nothing.

Our old friend Amos Wilton, of Great Bend, in another column takes us to task for speaking out in school with regard to the U.F.A. Well, after fifteen years' experience on an Alberta ranch, we take a back seat to no man in our opinions regarding the U.F.A. It is a good organization, has done good work, and we hope will do good work in the future, in which we hope to take a hand. But we contend it was a mistake to dabble in politics, and we hope it will not occur again.

It is the general opinion in Ottawa circles that the population of the Dominion, when the figures of the census are given out in a few days, will prove a disappointment, as they will show the population of Canada to be less than eight million by several hundred thousand.

E. J. FREAM OF U.F.A. SENDS CORRECTION.

The Editor, The News, Red Deer, Alta.

Dear Sir,—I have just received a copy of The News for October 4th, and find that you have reprinted a letter which appeared in the Strathcona Plaindealer. As the letter makes an untrue and uncalculated attack on me, as Secretary of the United Farmers of Alberta, I should be obliged if you would kindly allow me, through your columns, to deny the statement that I took part in the late campaign. I do not wish to use any harsh expressions concerning Mr. Sheppard's letter, and wish to simply make public the statement that I did not appear on the platform in support of any candidate during the campaign, either for or against any regular or independent candidate. Trusting you will give me the opportunity of publicly correcting the statement made by Mr. Sheppard.

I am, yours very truly,
EDWARD J. FREAM, Secretary.

We do not think Mr. Sheppard claimed Mr. Fream appeared on any platform, nor did he, if we recollect, say Mr. Fream had communicated with any political association during the campaign. The denial is superfluous. What Mr. Sheppard did infer was that Mr. Fream took part in the election in favor of the Liberal candidates and against the Conservative candidates, and that in the light of subsequent events this was a tactical error on the part of the leaders of the U.F.A. They felt positive the Liberal government would be returned to power, and they made no allowance for any other possible contingency. It has been said of Napoleon that he was a better general than Wellington because he always provided for a retreat. The unexpected has happened to them, and they now, if they wish to keep the organization in good fighting trim, must get in touch with Mr. Borden and work in unison with the government of the day. It is much harder to do this after having done all in the power of the organization to defeat him than it would have been had the U.F.A. been just and conceded that Mr. Borden was offering much that Sir Wilfrid had refused and was deserving of the support of the farmers of the west.

PREMIER SIFTON A MISFIT.

(Provincial Standard)
In a half column editorial the Morning Albertaian makes much of the fact that Mr. Sifton's decision as a chief justice has been upheld by the Supreme Court. We agree with the Albertaian in recognizing this new and brilliant feature in Mr. Sifton's career. But we regret that part company when it is argued from this fact that Mr. Sifton is pre-eminently fitted for the premiership. Mr. Sifton was always admirable as a judge. Keen, calculating, methodical, apparently never sympathizing with anything or anybody outside of the Siftonian range of interests, never tied up with complications of friends or connections, apart, alone, impersonal, cold to the general public he was, and is, wonderfully endowed and adapted to a high place in the highest courts of our land, if the above are the necessary qualifications.

We think he should have remained in his true sphere as Judge. Why he yielded to the call of a political position remains a mystery to many of his admirers. And they, with many others, trust he may soon return to that sphere in which he can be most useful to his country. But to say that a man apparently so constituted is adapted to a position that required the mixing qualities of a first-class promoter, the tact of an efficient chief master, the shrewdness of a stock trader, as well as a person's breadth of sympathy is, to draw a short bow, absolutely ridiculous. The premiership is a misfit to this eminent ex-Chief Justice. And we trust he will soon perceive what the majority have discovered. A surprise is never pleasant, even to me, so well controlled and self-possessioned as our eminent jurist now acting as Premier.

Americans on the Defeat

"We are Much to Blame," says the Washington Star.

Well, let us all be frank and admit that if political union with the United States seems undesirable we are much to blame. We magnify and widely advertise our own difficulties. There is American authority for the statement that within our borders the rich are getting richer and the poor poorer; that wealth and the power that goes with it are concentrated in a few hands; that the trusts are our masters, and dictate their own terms to Congress and state legislatures. Elections with us have been carried on the strength of such assertions. Need we be surprised that they have prevailed across the border after a campaign during which they were shouted from every stump.—Washington Star.

"Unreasonable to Take Offence," Says the Chicago News.

Americans would be most unreasonable to take offence at the rebuff which they have received. Indeed, they should view with admiration the self-reliance of the Canadians who manifestly prefer their own institutions to any possible Americanizing which might result from closer trade relations with us. Their pride has been deeply offended by the taunt that they were getting ready through the proposed reciprocity arrangements to court annexation to the United States. If there is any truth in they do not want it is government from Washington.—Chicago Daily News.

"Won't Make Fun of Us," Says the New York Times.

In many ways Canadians are much more British than the British themselves. They are exceedingly proud of the empire and their attachment to it, and they are sensitive on the point. Their unconquerable loyalty to the mother country is a quality altogether creditable to them, that no one would deny. Nor would any sensible person this side the border be disposed to "make fun" of that loyal attachment.—New York Times.

General Meager Succeeds Whyte in Vice-Presidency

Montreal, Oct. 5.—G. J. Bary, general manager of the western lines of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has been appointed vice-president in addition to his present office, with headquarters at Winnipeg. In other words, Mr. Bary is the successor to Sir William Whyte, and will have all the authority in the territory ruled over by the retiring head of the system in Western Canada. Mr. Bary is one of the best known railway men in Canada. He first became identified with the C.P.R. as secretary to Sir W. C. Van Horn, later he was appointed a superintendent with headquarters at North Bay, and was transferred to Winnipeg as assistant general manager. In 1907, a year later, being advanced to the office of general manager of western lines. In railway and business circles he is known as a man of great energy, splendid grasp and quickness of decision. The appointment was no surprise, as Mr. Bary is a railroad through and through, and is one of the most prominent men connected with railroad service to-day. He knows the business from A. to Z.

Bye-Election Writs Issued

Edmonton, Oct. 6.—Writs for provincial bye-elections have been issued. There are four vacancies, Lethbridge, owing to W. A. Buchanan resigning to contest the federal seat; Pincher Creek, Dr. Wonnock resigning; Calgary, Dr. J. G. Giddings, Gleichen, J. M. Lowndes; Lethbridge, T. A. McKenzie; Pincher Creek, H. W. Tricker.

Nominations will take place October 21, and polling October 31. The returning officers appointed are: Calgary, Dr. J. G. Giddings; Gleichen, J. M. Lowndes; Lethbridge, T. A. McKenzie; Pincher Creek, H. W. Tricker. Lethbridge is the only seat with candidates nominated yet. S. J. Shepherd, Liberal, and Dr. Stewart, Conservative. In Pincher Creek John Ross, a well known man, is spoken of as likely Liberal and Major Kemmis as the Conservative. In Calgary T. J. Skinner, Liberal, is in the field. The Conservatives have not yet named a man, though Dr. Blom is mentioned. In Gleichen the Liberals will nominate Monday night. K. A. MacArthur of Irficra, brother of the late member, is the likely man. Of the Conservatives it is believed that M. S. McCarthy, ex-M.P., has been asked to run, but has given no decision. Other nominees likely are Harold Riley or James Shoolie, the former federal candidate.

Alberta Central Blocks the C.N.R.

Cannot Cross A.C.R. Near Rocky Mountain House

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 8.—The board of railway commissioners has practically refused the application of the Canadian Northern to cross the line of the Alberta Central Railroad company west of Red Deer, near Rocky Mountain House. At the hearing of the application Alex. Smith, Ottawa, and J. C. Moore, Red Deer, acting for the Alberta Central Railroad, submitted that the applicant had not been properly incorporated by the Alberta legislature, and even if it were properly incorporated, the application, if granted, would carry with it the power to take a portion of the yards of the Alberta Central, and the law was clear that a road incorporated by provincial authority could not take lands of federally incorporated railway company. This latter contention was upheld, and the chairman announced the application could not be granted unless by agreement between the two companies. The application was therefore put over without any date for rehearing.

The Great Bend

The threshing machine begins its turn this week. We have not heard anything of the quality of yield.

A party of young people spent a very pleasant evening at the home of D. H. Smithman Tuesday of this week, being in honor of Miss Mabel's eighteenth anniversary. Games and social enjoyment were indulged in till an early hour.

A farewell reception was tendered Mr. Stoney, teacher in G. B. school, Tuesday evening of this week. Mr. Stoney resumes his course at the university and Mr. Dack continues the school.

Mrs. Robert Hartman visited her husband in Calgary this week. They expect to take an extended trip to B.C. in about a month.

Mr. McDonald, from Youngstown, Ohio, has been visiting his sister, Mrs. John Watkins. He is looking the country over and hopes to locate in Edmonton. Col. Hogg conducted a very successful sale at E. Zimwalt's, Sept. 30. Everything sold high; cash was paid for most. Zimwalt is returning to Missouri, though his farm is not for sale. We expect to have him back again.

Mrs. Cook has been very ill for the last week or two, but is some better at present. We hope she may soon permanently recover. Emil Kogenschlager, who has been sojourning in these parts while his father and mother were visiting in Minnesota, returned to his threatening outfit this week at Trezona Valley.

Diamond Clocks

"Kit," in October Canada Monthly (formerly Canada-West)

Are women growing more extravagant? There were a pair of stockings, long, exceedingly long, and of silk so fine you could have passed through a finger ring. They were of the most delicate hue imaginable, with a faint monogram woven in the top in plain shaded silk. But the instep was literally sewn with little jewels. In a superb cluster were worn a thimbleful of the tiniest rubies which glowed and flashed and kindled light, and about them were sown a shower of brilliants. "We have just finished two pairs like these for that lady whom you saw just now drive off in her motor. It is getting to be a bad among the richest New York women—no, not actresses—they like their diamonds in the soles of their shoes or in their teeth."

"But women don't wear those things!" Of course they do, and the effect of different kinds of jewels embroidered thickly on the instep is dazzling beyond conception. It is the richest and most, startling, extravagance which woman's dress has known for centuries.

"I've heard of jewelled garters," said the astonished reporters. "and wondered why the mischief women wanted to wear diamonds where nobody could see them, but jewelled stockings! That beats me!" "Perhaps," said the worldly wise old jeweller, "perhaps it will astonish you more to hear that Miss Mabel wears jewelled clasps in her corset, but six pairs in the trousseau of one of our New York belles, who married a titled Englishman this year, were sent to us to have jewelled buttons put in them—and I can tell you in a minute just what they were—if you'll wait."

As it is not every day one can make diamond copy, one waited developments.

The jeweller came back with his notes. "In one pair," he said, consulting them, "we put buttons of jade, in another turquoise, then coral, pearl, and in the bridal corset, a cascade of diamonds. Women these days wear diamond buttons in their shoes if they can get them, and they aren't a snap how much it costs their husbands."

And all the while home the newspaper woman was thinking of a little family she knew so poor, the children couldn't go to school for lack of decent shoes and stockings. One little family? Thousands.

THE PERFUME OF THE LADY IN BLACK

By GASTON LEROUX.
Author of "The Mystery of the Yellow Room."
Copyright, 1909, by BRENTANO'S

Mme. Edith arose from her chair, speaking ecstatically of the beauty of nature. But, in her opinion, she declared, there was nothing more beautiful anywhere than the Gardens of Babylon. She added mischievously, "They seem so much more beautiful because one may only see them from a distance!"

The prince said nothing. Mme. Edith looked red and a moment later said suddenly:

"I'm not going to deceive you any longer, prince. I have seen your gardens."

"Indeed?" inquired Gallitchev. "I'll tell you all about it."

And she related, while the prince listened with an air of cold indifference, the story of her visit to the Gardens of Babylon.

She had come upon them inadvertently from the rear in climbing over a hillock which separated the gardens from the mountains. She had wandered from enchantment to enchantment, but without being in the least astonished.

The prince had scarcely time to reply before Walter, Old Bob's servant, brought a dispatch to Routelle. The latter asked permission to open it and read aloud:

"Return as soon as possible. We are waiting for you very anxiously. A magnificent assignment at St. Petersburg. This dispatch was signed by the editor in chief of the Epoch."

"Well, what do you say to that, M. Routelle?" demanded the prince.

"I shall not go to St. Petersburg," declared Routelle.

"They will regret your decision at the court," said the prince. "It is certain that, and allow me to say, young man, that you are missing a wonderful opportunity."

Routelle bowed his lips as though to answer, but closed them again. Gallitchev went on:

"You would have found an adventure worthy of your skill. One may hope for everything when one has been strong enough to unmask a Laran."

The word fell into the midst of us like a bombshell, and, as if by a common impulse, we took refuge behind our smoked glasses. The silence which followed was horrible. Laran? Why should this name which we ourselves had so often pronounced with the last forty-eight hours, in which we were aware; he might be able to deceive a detective, a journalist, a reporter, and even a Roulettable; he might even deceive a friend under some circumstances, I admit. But he could never deceive a daughter so true as to M. Roulettable, for it is the apparition of Laran that has created a girl between M. Roulettable and Mme. Edith.

"I prefer rather to believe, for the sake of supposition, in personality of M. Robert Darzac which I have never expected to find upon him in order to base my argument about the possibility of a little more solidly. If Robert Darzac were Laran, Laran would not have appeared on several occasions to M. Roulettable, for it is the apparition of Laran that has created a girl between M. Roulettable and Mme. Edith."

"And then, all at once, the sensation passed. The eyes doubtless were turned away from me. I drew a long breath. Another sigh echoed my own. Was it from the breast of Routelle—that was it the lady in black, who perhaps, had at the same time as myself endured the weight of those piercing eyes?"

Old Bob spoke:

"Prince, I do not believe that your last April bone goes any further back than the middle of the quaternary period."

And all the black spectacles turned in his direction.

Routelle arose and made a sign to me. I hastened to the council room, where he was waiting for me.

"Well, did you feel it too?"

"Neither of us," I continued, "is Laran."

"Why?"

"Why?" I echoed.

"Yes, why? Tell me. You must give a reason why you believe so. I acknowledge that I am not Laran. I am sure of that, for I am not Routelle, but face to face with Routelle, tell me why you cannot be Laran—neither you, Sir Stangeron, nor M. Darzac, nor Arthur Rance, nor Old Bob, nor Prince Gallitchev. But we must know some good reason why each of these cannot be Laran. Only when that is accomplished shall I be able to breathe freely behind these stone walls?"

"How about the servants?" I asked.

"I am absolutely certain that none of them was absent from the Fort of Hercules when Laran appeared to Mme. Darzac and to M. Darzac at the railway station at Houg."

"Upon you, Routelle," I cried, "that you don't trouble yourself about them because none of their eyes were behind the black spectacles."

"Be quiet, please. You make me nervous with your theories."

This phrase, uttered in reaction, struck me strangely. He resumed meditating.

"First, Sinclair is not Laran because Laran was at Trepot with me while Laran was at Houg."

"Second, Professor Stangeron is not Laran because he was on his way from Dijon to Lyons while Laran was at Houg. As a fact, reaching Lyons one minute before him, M. and Mme. Darzac saw him alight from the train."

"But all the others, if it is necessary to prove that they were not at Houg at that moment, might be Laran, for all of them might have been at Houg."

"First, M. Darzac was there. Arthur Rance was away from home during the two days which preceded the arrival of the prince and of Mme. Darzac. He arrived at M. Darzac's in time to receive them. Mme. Edith herself informed me in reply to a few words, that she had not seen him for a long time. Her husband had been absent those two days on business. Old Bob made his journey to Paris. Prince Gallitchev was in the midst of us like a bombshell, and, as if by a common impulse, we took refuge behind our smoked glasses. The silence which followed was horrible. Laran? Why should this name which we ourselves had so often pronounced with the last forty-eight hours, in which we were aware; he might be able to deceive a detective, a journalist, a reporter, and even a Roulettable; he might even deceive a friend under some circumstances, I admit. the manner in which he looked at everything around him. Nothing escaped him. And the square tower, the abode of the Lady in Black, was the object of his constant surveillance.

When M. and Mme. Darzac were not in their apartment, the only key which opened the door was in the keeping of the Berniers, and it was a special kind of key made purposely for the room with the last twenty-four hours in a place which no one but Routelle knew. He had let no one into the secret.

Routelle wished that the watch might be kept also upon the rooms of Old Bob, but the latter swore that he would not be treated like a prisoner, and he said that on no account would he give up the privilege of going and coming to his own rooms when he saw without asking the keys from the lodge keepers.

Mme. Edith had said, with her lips pressed together in a narrow little smile, "But, M. Routelle, my uncle doesn't think that any one is coming to carry him away!"

Routelle, after asking after the health of Mme. Bernier, was gathering up potatoes and putting them in a bag, requested Fern Bernier to open the door of the kitchen. He was the first time that he had entered the apartment. The atmosphere was almost freezing. The large room, which was formerly the study of Mme. Bernier, contained a bed and a table placed at one of the two openings in the wall around which there had formerly been a fireplace. The room was now filled with bars of iron between which one could scarcely pass one's arm. Opposite the entrance, there was a panel. It would have been impossible for any one to hide in this chamber unless behind this panel. And the Berniers had noticed nothing at any time they visited the room both behind the panel and in the closet where Darzac hung his clothes.

"What was he doing in the sleeping room of Mme. Darzac? We were absolutely certain that we had left nothing behind us of which we did not know."

Mme. Darzac's room was smaller than that of her husband. But it was bright and well lighted from the way that the windows were placed. As soon as we set foot over the threshold I saw Routelle turn pale. He turned to me and said:

"Sinclair, do you perceive the perfume of the Lady in Black?"

I did not. I perceived nothing at all. Routelle, after having looked under the bed, gave the signal for departure and followed us from the room. He locked the door with the tiny key, which he put in his pocket and then he went into the corridors and also that of Old Bob's apartment, which consisted of a bedroom and sitting room, as easy to leave as to enter. He made the rounds of the square tower we had left no one behind us save M. and Mme. Bernier. One would have said that there could have been no human being in the apartment of the Darzacs before then, a few minutes later, opened the door to Darzac himself, as I am now about to relate.

CROWING CONTESTS.
English Village Will Hold Quaker Poultry Competitions This Summer.

There will be a cocker's chorus during the coming summer at Dunsmuir, the old-fashioned Essex town, famed for its association with the historic ditch of bacon. The cockerels will be judged in rows facing each other, with a judge in front of each bird, and the cockerel that crows most in half an hour will win the prize.

It has been said that this will be the first cock-crowing competition held in England. This, however, is scarcely correct; for crowing competitions were held in Devonshire as early as 1805, and for a number of years past they have been popular among poultry-keepers on the continent. And the cocks of Dunsmuir have to be in good form if they are to beat the record of some of the Devonshire and continental birds. One of the Devonshire cockerels, a five-year-old prize crow, has been known to give tongue 2 1/2 times in half an hour.

Owners of cocks with good powers take immense pains to make their cocks row well. The usual method is to keep the birds in cages through which no light can penetrate, although there is plenty of air. Every day the cages are taken out into the open air and the covering immediately removed, when the cocks immediately begin to crow loudly, under the avid impression that they have overpowered themselves and that the dawn is far advanced.

This goes on for several weeks before the cocks are put into the open air, the bird's desire to crow long and loudly every time he sees the light. That time the competition the cocks are stimulated to do their utmost by each being shown his favor in the shape of a prize.

A special manner peculiar to each owner, the secret of which is jealously guarded. So the winner made the cock and the man at the pie. Then the winner asked him to may for what he had given.

"Why, I gave you the dumping for the pie," he answered.

"Yes, but then you should pay for the dumping," argued the other.

"That wouldn't be right for I did not eat the dumping," retorted the man as he went out.

The waiter—don't being very quick at figures—couldn't see anything wrong with this reasoning, and yet he found that he was five cents out. What do you make of it?

Practical Arithmetic Problem

A man went into a restaurant and called called for an apple dumpling. The waiter brought it, but the man on looking it over decided that he would rather have a piece of pumpkin pie. So the waiter made the exchange and the man ate the pie. Then the waiter asked him to pay for what he had eaten.

"Why, I gave you the dumping for the pie," he answered.

"Yes, but then you should pay for the dumping," argued the other.

"That wouldn't be right for I did not eat the dumping," retorted the man as he went out.

The waiter—don't being very quick at figures—couldn't see anything wrong with this reasoning, and yet he found that he was five cents out. What do you make of it?

Practical Arithmetic Problem

A man went into a restaurant and called called for an apple dumpling. The waiter brought it, but the man on looking it over decided that he would rather have a piece of pumpkin pie. So the waiter made the exchange and the man ate the pie. Then the waiter asked him to pay for what he had eaten.

"Why, I gave you the dumping for the pie," he answered.

"Yes, but then you should pay for the dumping," argued the other.

"That wouldn't be right for I did not eat the dumping," retorted the man as he went out.

FIELDING and PATERSON: "Say! Could y

Rutherford Cup Still in Red Deer

The Edmonton High School Football Team made another determined effort on Saturday last to snatch the Rutherford Cup from the local boys, but, alas for their hopes, they were beaten by the largest score of any of the cup games so far, though extra time had to be played to decide it.

The day was not very nice for football, as a nasty wind was blowing, started before after 2.30 the game began. Red Deer had slightly the advantage of the wind, which was nearly crosswind, but the ball was outside of the field a part of the time and the play was rather rugged. The teams seemed pretty even, neither being able to score. Though Red Deer had a good chance on a corner kicked by W. Krause Part way through the first half J. Crozier, captain by a heavy cheer. Seriously injured by the visitors, he had to be laid off, a man being substituted. The Red Deer team also laid off the Red Deer team of contracts involving enormous sums of money. There is likely to be a big row about it, more especially as the contracts are declared to be open to grave criticism and are being let by a moribund government of whose members seven are not even responsible to the people.

After half Edmonton had the little advantage the wind offered and pressed hard, but were generally wild in their shooting, though Bob stopped one or two nice ones. Shortly before the game, Perraton for Red Deer slipped by the backs and put one through that Bob could not reach, and the game was a tie.

To decide who held the Cup fifteen minutes extra had to be played each way, this being one of the rules that go with it. In case of a tie after that the home team kept the silverware. For nearly ten minutes neither side had the advantage, though both were working hard, but then, after a rush of the Red Deer forwards, Gatewell got an easy chance and put one through. This seemed to break the hearts of the Edmonton boys, for Markle scored again for Red Deer a minute afterwards, and Carswell again a few minutes later, making the score 4-1 in favor of the home boys. The sides were changed again and the game lasted for fifteen more minutes, but the locals only defended and the visitors were never dangerous.

For the visitors Koffer, at centre half, played the best game, and Crozier played a strong game until he was hurt. Perraton played well and some showed up better than at practices. Markle, Krause and Gibson were strong and Brown played a sterling game. The visitors shows improvement on the right wing, and White, the new-to-the-game, will make a good left with practice. After the game the visitors were given their supper at the Olympia and departed by the evening train for Edmonton. We understand they have protested the game on the grounds that some of the Red Deer players were ineligible, but we do not think the protest can stand. The Edmonton team had four trophies, all strong players, while the locals only had one. The teams were, as we know, Red Deer—Hewson, C. Smith, Gibson, Evans, R. Smith, Brown, Krause, Carswell, White, Markle, Geissinger, Edmonton—Engstrom, Crozier, Koffer, Hicks, Thompson, Carmichael, Jaffries and Love. R. Gee refereed.

The locals may play the Normal School at Calgary on Thanksgiving Day. In view of the fact that Edmonton had four teachers to Red Deer's one, and we understand that the Red Deer are married men, it seems a little out of place to be casting so many glances on the Red Deer team, as has been done in the Edmonton papers and the Alberta of Calgary. Surely the Edmonton team did not expect to run up against a bunch of kids brought down. Red Deer had one married man on the team, namely, A. R. Gibson, teacher. Every other player was a bona fide pupil of the Red Deer High School, and there were no riggers on the team. It is most cowardly for Calgary and Edmonton papers to publish such statements and we hope they will have the Red Deer has a High School ball team to be proud of, it is a very easy matter to ton players' statements, and are entitled to strong censure making them, as a true sport more about it. We believe it should be a rule that no team plays on the team. If such was for all concerned, as city respect.

Horticultural Society Defeated Government Let Many Contracts

Ottawa, Oct. 1.—(Special.)—The first of the contracts is for the erection of the Champlain terminal for the national transcontinental railway in Quebec, and goes to a contractor named Gosselin. The contract, which involves an expenditure of $200,000 is let under the statute by the national transcontinental railway commission, whose chairman, N. S. Parent, is so much of a political appointee that he is resigning with the fall of the Laurier ministry. While let in the first place by the commission, the contract must be confirmed and has been confirmed by order in council on the recommendation of the departmental head, who in this case is a beaten minister, Hon. Geo. F. Graham. This cabinet action was taken, it is said, later than Thursday. Another contract for 2,000 tons of steel rails has also been let.

The cabinet sat again on Friday and Saturday, with a late sitting on Saturday night. Other contracts involving many millions are pending, notably one for which tenders have been received, and money voted. There are a number of them.

The ordinary desire of an outgoing government would be to leave to its successors these large expenditures to its successors. In this case there is said to be a special political pattern for directing the expenditure of these millions of public money, via the patronage list of the beneficiaries.

What the U.S. Looks Like

The Self-Drawn Portrait of this Republic

New York Sun: It would be interesting to know how large a part of the Canadian anti-reciprocity pattern the product of an unreasoning chauvinism. The majority was much larger than can be accounted for on ordinary grounds. Evidently the people of Canada are imbued with the national spirit, and tooverse to entangling and threatening complications. The defeat of reciprocity can be readily explained on such a hypothesis. But the extent and emphasis of the defeat suggest still more poignant and intimate considerations, into such perhaps as the fear of ultimate citizenship in this presumably proud pattern of comparative young men can reach the time when that prospect would have contained no terrors even when for the most timid and unimpaired. Since the contrary, the action of the Miss American citizen, his immunities and opportunities, fill the world with envy and desire. Our public men held up the picture for admiring contemplation, the press best of our national life and the testimony of our national life and the progress provided the most abundant and alluring coloring. In those days, identity with the fortunes of the United States seemed, and was, a consummation greatly to be wished. The guarantee of our tion. No cloud obscured the bright sky above us; no obstacle blocked the pathway to a common glory.

During the last six or seven years, however, American citizenship has been taken on an abhorrent and obnoxious aspects. According to the muckraking writers and the professional orators, the newspapers, periodicals and magazines, to any nothing of politicians in and out of congress, we are an accused people. Those of us who have accumulated fortunes have done so in iniquity and stealth, through inhuman persecution of the helpless, through ruthless spoliation of our rivals.

The social structure rests on falsehood, crime, vulgarity; our government is a thing of graft and treachery. Everyone with a bank account is under suspicion or open denunciation. Only the unsuccessful are virtuous; only the wretched are pure.

Thus the outside world sees us, thus are we appraised on the testimony of our own witnesses; and so when the Hon. Champ Clark told Canada that reciprocity was the first step in the direction of an inevitable assimilation he held up to Canada the most appalling fact that that one country could brandish before another.

Whether reciprocity in the shape just proposed, or in any other shape, would have borne good fruit, materially or sentimentally, we may perhaps never know; but for our hateful standing in the eyes of the world, for the contamination that attends the smallest contact with us, we have to thank the man who set in motion the abhorrent propaganda, and the courtiers and sycophants who waked to malign activity under his abominable instigation.

What Mr. Borden Will Do

In his manifesto to the electors of Canada, R. L. Borden gave the pledge of the Liberal-Conservative party to carry out the following policy if returned to power:

1. A thorough reorganization of the methods by which public expenditure is made.
2. The granting of their natural resources to the prairie provinces.
3. The construction of the Hudson Bay railway and its operation by independent commission.
4. The control and operation by the state of the terminal elevators.
5. The necessary encouragement for establishing and carrying on the chilled meat industry.
6. The establishment of a permanent commission to study the problem of the extension of free rural mail delivery.
7. The extension of civil service reform.
8. The granting of liberal assistance to the provinces for the purpose of supplementing and extending the work of agricultural education for the improvement of agriculture.

And lastly, a course of policy and administration which will maintain independent and unimpaired control of our own affairs by the Parliament of Canada; a policy which while affording no just cause for challenge to any foreign nation, will find its highest ideal in the autonomous development of Canada as a nation within the British Empire.

We have it on good authority that negotiations are under way for performance in Red Deer about Nov. 9th by that pleasing musical organization—The Schubert Symphony Club and Lady Quartette, of Chicago. Many of our readers have heard this popular company and no doubt everyone knows of the high favor in which its 20 years of success has placed it. The great variety and popular character of this company's programme has endeared it to the hearts of American music lovers, until to-day it stands undoubtedly first in their affections. Their new programme is said to be the best they have ever presented, and no doubt their house will be full here if they are now enroute.
